Dear Mr. Horn,

Florida

I am writing to address the questions you submitted. You posed three questions and I address them in order:

Illinois

1. As an organization, the IOGCC does not have a position on climate change. Our focus, as it has been for 80 years, is to promote conservation and the efficient recovery of domestic oil and natural gas while protecting health, safety and the environment.
2. Same as above. The IOGCC is not part of conversations on climate change. In addition, the organization represents the offices of governors, not non-governmental entities.
3. The IOGCC, by its charter, supports the beneficial use of the nation's natural gas resources. States regulate emissions to prevent waste and for the purposes of public safety.
